All student wanderers become accustomed to the place-making history, under the subheading of progress, for we were moving FORWARD.

Contests came, operettas, plays, and minimum essentials — but we survived!

Spring came bringing dances, term papers, formals, erasers. . .

Graduation impended, applications flooded the mails, and eyes brimmed with tears; we'd grown accustomed to the place!

A step FORWARD had been taken — a step into the life that was ahead.

We could face the future, having learned by example and application to be active members of our school, community — and America.

It was up to us to carry on traditional ideals and to continue FORWARD!

REVIEWING final plans for the November 8th Open House are the following members of the Board of Education: SEATED: Mr. Charles Boller, Mr. Wesley E. Schneider, President, Mr. James Cain. STANDING: Mr. George Oaks, Mr. Irving Reamer, Mr. Milton Seefeld. Not present at the time was Mr. Robert Mehlman.

Board of Education Opens New Era

An era ended and another began, when in the afternoon of November 12, 1961, the new Oshkosh High School was dedicated.

Since 1931, devoted school boards have battled for new facilities, new ideas, and a new building. The 1931 plan for a new unit to replace the Old Red Brick Building was shelved, but not forgotten. Starting in 1954, referendums were held, which in 1958 resulted in the voters authorizing an all new physical plant.

The new high school building, costing in excess of four million dollars, is a streamlined structure of steel and glass. It is a distant relative of the city's first school — a makeshift addition to Webster Stanley's cabin — but relative it is. It is a long way too, from the America of the 1830's to the America of the 1960's, but the people and their democratic convictions are the same.

Oshkosh's first teacher, Emmeline Cook, taught seven pupils with the aid of three books. The present roster of the high school lists 112 professional and non-professional people, more than 1600 students receiving instruction, and 21,000 library books.

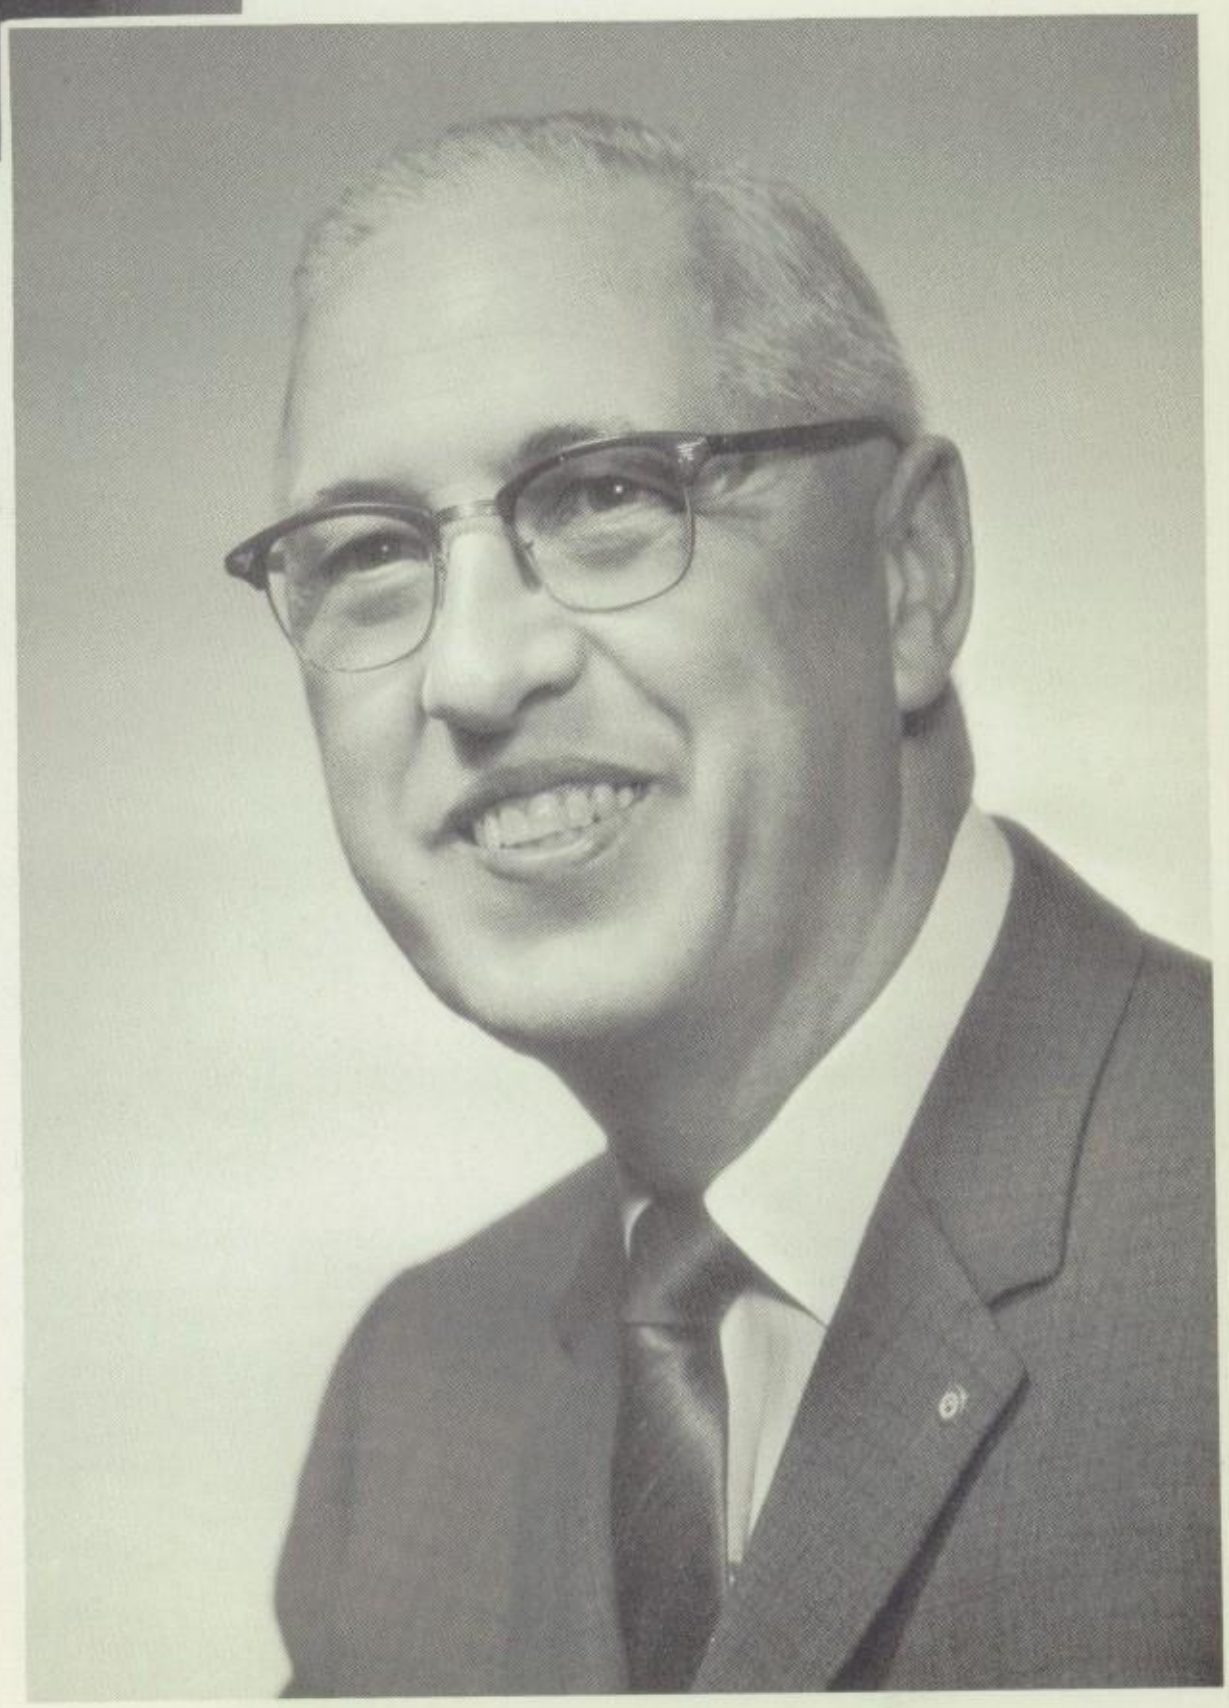
In the 1830's people looked at the moon. In the 1960's we are making plans to go to the moon.

From a modest beginning, Oshkosh's public school system has grown far beyond the conception of its founders. The first school board, which was organized in 1857, could never have imagined what the school system is like today, with fifteen schools, 482 employees, and nearly 8000 students. The new high school has 75 classrooms and laboratories, a health unit, a visual aids center, departmental resource rooms, a cafeteria, and other modern facilities. One cannot help wondering what visions of the future Emmeline Cook had, just as one cannot help wondering what visions of the future the teachers of this new building have.

A vast, limitless educational frontier challenges school board members, administrators, teachers, students, and parents. The dedication ceremonies dramatized this challenge. A new era has begun.

SCHOOL BOARD PRESIDENT Wesley Schneider and Mr. Tipler review last minute plans for the Dedication Ceremony Sunday, November 12.

Determining Educational Policy



Mr. Tipler is the twentieth superintendent of schools since Oshkosh was designated a district in 1856. In him we find another fine example of those working for the betterment of education. Mr. Tipler holds a B.S. from Carroll College and an M.S. from the University of Wisconsin. Despite the burdening responsibility of educating 8,000 students, he still manages to look and act happy. It is fortunate for us, the students of OHS, to have such a competent and wise superintendent in our midst.

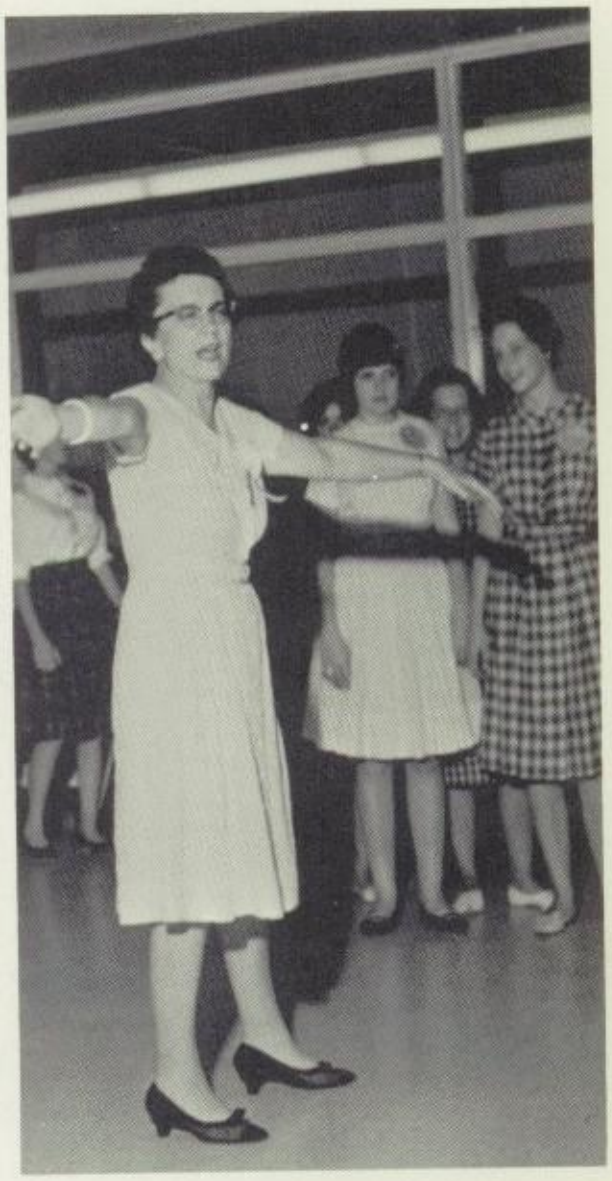
ONLY ONCE on Dedication Day did Vice-Principal Homer Fratt have to say, "Climb upon my knee sonny boy." The little boy in this instance was named "Chuckie" and Mr. Fratt located his parents by use of the school-wide public address system, visible to the left.



Determining School Procedures

IGNORED BY the students who usually are his main concern, afforded a brief moment's rest by the activities of the Pep Rally, a tired Principal Traeger finds the curb a good place to sit down.

MISS HAASE is neither signaling nor serenading. She is merely attempting to direct sophomores attending the Sophomore Party to form a proper line for a grand march.

faculty

Behind the mountains of tests they correct, and the oceans of chalk dust, lurk individualists often never understood by their students.

OHS has a well traveled faculty. They have made assorted pilgrimages throughout the tropics of Hawaii and South America, the ancient lands of Europe and Asia, and most of Canada and America.

To increase their knowledge, and thus enrich the lives of their students, many work through summer sessions, do extensive and varied reading, or take correspondence courses to further their educations by adding that Masters or Doctors degree. These advancements are financed by jobs ranging from summertime teaching and working with young people, to surveying and mink ranching. The many degrees held by OHS teachers indicate the success of their resourcefulness.

Being colorful individuals seeking self expression, their hobbies are animated and exotic. They are not only teachers, but musicians, writers, linguists, gardeners, golfers, collecters of antique pistols — and most of all — persons keenly aware of their duties as influences and catalysts in keeping Oshkosh High, and its ever increasing student body, continuing, not only in their studies but in life, forever FORWARD.

activities

As future leaders in our community, it is important for us to begin active participation in public activities. Realizing this, OHS gives us a chance to show our parents and friends what we can do. Early in our young adult lives we begin to establish ourselves as mature, capable individuals — with talent!

Our best public relations work is done by the music and sports departments. By inviting the general public to view and criticize our efforts, we show that we are not merely enjoying ourselves — though we do! — but seriously learning skills that may lead to lifelong pleasure, or culminate in a career.

We who participate in football and basketball enjoy being part of the team. We know the thrill of a rough workout that rewards us in a hard fought victory, or the loss that does not sting because we played our very best. The community turns out to rally us on such big events as Homecoming, and who knows — maybe that scout from pro football will see us and take down our name for future reference! Win or place, the game is sweeter to us, because our school — and our town — is in the stands, cheering.

"Music hath charms . . ." and many of us blessed with voices extraordinary sing in the choirs at school. Our most ambitious project — the operetta — is a boon to all music patrons of the city. To repay this support, we work diligently to make it an unforgettable performance. Thanks to the enthusiasm of listeners as well as singers, we Look FORWARD to each annual production.

Members of the band and orchestra don't sing, but they can carry a tune! During the year, concert and varsity bands produce some excellent music as evidenced in their "Music for Moderns" presentation. They've won state awards and some of our virtuosos seem promising candidates for the Hall of Fame!

No matter who you are or what you like, OHS has something for you. And, as in everything at OHS, the ulterior motive is to move FORWARD, molding the eager and talented youth of today into tomorrows' men and women!

HOMECOMING AS IT appeared from the corner of Eagle Street and Southland. Students and alumni gathered on the sidewalk and in the street for the first pep rally in the history of the new school. IN THE MIDDLE picture members of the cheerleading squads shout "U-rah-rah Oshkosh High" during Homecoming pep rally. IN THE LOWER picture Mary Zellmer, Lynn Ginke, Judy Esser, Janice Schroeder, and Sue Hansen prepare to "Send North to Alaska" with the Pep Club's display in the Library Court.

Homecoming Starts New Traditions

On Homecoming day 1961, excited students and faculty of Oshkosh High gathered on Eagle Street for their first pep rally of the year.

Some old Homecoming traditions were followed and new ones initiated as students and "old grads" gathered under the clear sky of a perfect fall day. A long line of pert cheerleaders waved pompoms, and the band provided appropriate musical background. City Manager Raymond Harbaugh was guest speaker. He roared into Eagle Street in a 1922 Buick, owned and driven by Mr. Edgar Meredith.

Master of Ceremonies Michael Barton introduced Student Council President Bill Mitchell, who presented Homecoming Queen Beverly Luedeke and her court.

The rally concluded with the band and the cheerleaders leading the audience in singing Alma Mater.

Great expectations were realized when the Indians defeated Sheboygan North 27—21.

AT THE RIGHT, Minstrel John Moore, and Poet Richard Spalding, both offer their love and talent to "Nina" Kathleen Ryf. IN MIDDLE PICTURE, Sally Lewerenz and Dave Putzer do the "Eternal Waltz" in the ballroom of "Countess Giovanni's" Riveria estate. IN LOWER CORNER, after a very successful performance of "THE SONG OF NORWAY," "Nina," Kathy Ryf, laughs with "Freddy the Fiddler," Barb Allmers.

"LOB," JAY FIERKE, advises his guests, Marnette Buelow, Pam Tangye, and Gene Griesbach, not to go into the mysterious wood.

Drama Club Scores With "Dear Brutus"

This year the Drama Club presented James M. Barrie's fantasy Dear Brutus. This is the delightful story of eight frustrated people who have the chance to relive their lives. They are invited to spend "midsummer's eve" at the estate of a mysterious little man named Lob. Lob hasn't aged a day for the past seventy years.

During "midsummer's eve" a wood appears near the house. When Lob slyly suggests that the neighborhood rumor is that anyone who ventures into the wood gets a second chance at life, the guests hurry to it.

In the wood, love triangles were reversed, the rich become poor and the poor became rich, but after returning to reality, the guests realized that they would remain the same if given a second chance. The useless would still be useless, the proud would still be proud, the weak would always be weak.

Mrs. Phyllis Lahti directed the play which was performed in the Webster Stanley Junior High School auditorium.

The Old Man

He lies in bed so feebly.
Yet still his eyes are bright,
Belonging not in this dark room,
But out in glad daylight.

He doesn't want to stay here.
He has so much to do.
A thousand joyous tasks remain
Before his life is through.

He always joked with children
Just as friend to friend.
And everyone will mourn him
When finally comes the end.

His loved ones gather round him,
And still with smile and wink,
The old rogue reassures them
He's more well than they think!

How sad this animated man
Must soon from life depart.
Just because his body expired
Before his youthful heart.

Listen for Silence

I've never heard silence

But I've seen it
clothed in a blanket of fresh fallen snow, suspended above a glassy lake,
or hung in the heights of the sky

And I've felt it
in a lingering glance,
in fear,
in awe,
and in kindness, gentleness, or love.

I only see and feel silence.
After I've tasted silence
I will speak to you so that you may hear what my ears never heard — silence.

Escape Into the Night

Wrap yourself in darkness, Winter Night
Conceal the face of heaven to my eyes.
Call forth the winds and bitter gales,
Tear sparkling stars from out the ashen skies.

Wrap me now in darkness, Winter Night
I must escape the glare of human minds.
To walk alone through black oblivion,
To loose the ties of freedom when it binds.

Let me walk forever, Winter Night
I hear the soothing chords of silence in my ears.
Men must take your solitary path,
To flee from troubled life and present fears.

Carol Malone

They'll Get Them Every Time

He has said them. The harsh words can't be taken back now.
She stares at him with absolute horror and disbelief.
He hates himself for what he's said, but he can't give in now.
She has decided to solve the situation by making him feel like a louse.
He tensely waits for a return attack.
She makes sure he has seen the tears in her eyes and then bows her head without saying a word.
He can't stand the sight of a girl crying and ponders on the thought of apologizing.
She is wondering what's taking him so long.
He has decided against apologizing because he is the master.
She turns and runs away expecting him to follow.
He would like to follow, but he must remain firm.
She sits by the phone and waits impatiently for him to call.
He doesn't call for three days hoping to torture her.
She has decided her life is over.
He finally decides to give in and call her.
She runs to the phone; waits a moment and then answers it calmly.
He announces it is he.
She blurts out with an apology.
He despises himself and insists that he's the one who should apologize.
She says, no, she's the one who acts so stupidly.
He says the only stupid thing she ever did was to go out with him.
She is well satisfied and assures him he is forgiven and all is well.
He thinks she's just wonderful.

Silence

My little brain cried "Halt!
I will not stand to hear another sound this very day or I will break, I fear."

So earplugs were in order.
I bought them right away and saved my brain from ruin on that fateful day.

The silence was terrific.
It cleared my brain, I found.
The only trouble was,
I couldn't hear a sound.

The silence drove me nutty.
It was too much for me.
I took the earplugs back again,
and kept my sanity.

Ellen Siewert

Hillside Reflections

Down in the valley below me,
So gently and silently flowing,
Peacefully moving, unhampered
By boulders, long reeds, or low branches,

A stream of cool water wends slowly,
And trickles o'er tiny, smooth pebbles;
The pleasure of comforting others
Perhaps is the goal of its being.

Over its banks hang the pine trees,
A shade for the slow-moving river,
And below is the picture of heaven,
Distortedly mirrored in the water.

Countryside rolling and verdant,
Alive with the sounds of small wildlife,
The faint, droning buzz of the insects,
The slight, swishing breeze in the maples,

I hear and I see this below me
And think time and life have stopped running;
If only I, too, could lie down there
With songs of the stream in my senses.

The simple folk live in the valley
And care not at all for world problems;
Working for loved ones and sharing,
They cherish their freedom from worry.

But over the hill where I'm standing,
Behind me the noise of the city
Is harsh to my sensitive eardrums
And grates on my quieted spirits.

The smoke and the dirt and tall buildings
Can't please me or tenderly move me;
I long to look back on the country
That's free of the torturing struggle.

There is not a restful mood anywhere,
Calming the nervous or troubled;
The city is man and his problems,
The race of competitors' scheming.

Darkness and squalor prevailing,
In other parts, pompous parading;
Not any group's free from pretensions,
The rich and the poor masquerading.

This hill gives me insight to realize
Life in the city is difficult;
Climb to the place where I'm standing,
Compare, and decide which is better.

The country, relaxing with silence,
Meandering streamlet and pine trees,
Or city of struggle and cunning —
Man's handwork or beautiful Nature.

Paula Borchers

The Coming in of Winter

On a November eve,
When the wind whistles in each nook,
I can see fall leave
And feel winter come.

The silver moon bathes the harvested fields
In celestial, eerie rays,
And I can see fall yield
To the oncoming snow.

War

War is bloody, cold and black,
It is the evil machine that burns the strong for fuel
And leaves the weak for fathers.
In this way it weakens nations.
But it also strengthens them.
A war now and then makes the people tough.
The rationing and depression force them to be strong.
From the lonely hearts of soldiers come silent voices.
Lead missiles tear through them but they still come up.
Some say, "Why must I shoot at my brother?"
Others answer, "Because he wants to kill you,
Your wife, and your babies."
The soldier must step ever-forward.
Each step back brings the enemy that much closer to his home.
Each step forward pushes the enemy that much further from His home.
War is conceived in the minds of a few,
Implanted in the minds of more,
Fought by many,
Felt by all.
It is the protegé of sadists and power-hungry men.
It is the home-wrecker of the humble men.
A soldier's pain ends when there's no more blood for his Hungry heart to gulp; but his lonely lover's pain goes on.
Some say the next war will have no bullets,
That great bombs and missiles will destroy cities.
If this is true, the safest place will be the front line —
So close to the enemy that the vodka on his collar can be Smelled.

Good Time

Time is but the passing hours of day.
  Sometimes it travels with you slow and melancholy,
Leaving you in peace and ecstasy.
  You are happy and content;
Paying no heed to time, it creeps along with you.
  Now you have to face what you have done.
With feelings of pride and fulfillment,
  You wish you could go on living this way forever.
But, think a moment!
  Life isn't like that.
Everyone has his up's and downs.
  No one can always keep up with time.

Sue Dempsey

Bad Time

Time is but the passing of hours of day.
  Sometimes it travels with leaps and bounds,
Leaving you lost and forlorn.
  You were slow and lazy,
Paying no heed to time, it crept upon you.
  While feeling shame and embarrassment,
You wish you were dead.
  But, think a moment!
Stop wishing that.
  You are not alone.
Everyone lets time fly once in a while,
  And suffers for it later.

Moonlight Swim

It was a quiet, peaceful night. A perfect night for a swim. The air was warm with a soft breeze. The moon's reflection looked like a golden ball on the water, with a long, shimmering ribbon all the way to the shore. The grass was cool and moist under our bare feet. We walked to the water to free our warm bodies in it's soothing coolness. All our troubles seemed to disappear as the water caressed us. While we were swimming, the earth and it's heat were forgotten. We were free.

A Year Gone By

I met my love on a summer's night;
He plucked from the sky two stars so bright,
And placed them in my eyes
Because he said the skies
Could not so worthy bear their light.

My love was with me still in Fall,
And kissed me by the garden wall
And said he loved me true,
And though our love was new
My foolish heart believed it all.

In Winter love was with me still Untouched by Winter's deathly chill.
My heart was pure as snow,
And so I did not know
That though he stayed, 'twas 'gainst his will.

My love was at my side in Spring
To hear the song that robins sing,
And though I felt secure,
And thought he loved me dear,
His love to me he did not bring.

Now mingles with my tears of pain
The sweet remorse of summer rain
Today my love is gone,
But memory lingers on,
And tears my bitter heart in twain.

The Eagle's Flight Alone

Long, cold, wintry days and nights
Mindful, thoughtful and erect
Vigilant and powerful
Our country stands alone.

While others grope and grapple
To ally their destiny,
The eagle's eye-purposeful, concise
To strike down the fearsome foe.

Her huge broad wings unfolded,
Her majesty undressed
The free-world's warmth and comfort,
Our country stands alone.

And when her wings to heaven soar,
Her claws outstretched and poised
To vanquish the fearsome tyrant foe,
Her flight will be alone.

That Variable Complex

Ceased conversation,
Homeless hands,
Sour smile,
That "pure discomfort" complex.

Erroneous event,
Ludicrous laughter,
Quick correction,
That "odd-ball" complex.

Giddy gaiety,
Frilly formals,
Forward "four hundreds,"
That "wall flower" complex.

Leader Lilly,
Scientist Sylvester,
Mathematician Minnie,
That "stupid little me" complex.

Follow the Leaders

We are leaders, chorus the few,
Our word rings true throughout many lands.
Let us lead you to the perfect Utopia,
Where poverty, famine, and disease cannot exist.

We are followers, chorus the many,
Our minds cannot comprehend your great power.
Takes us to the land,
Where poverty, famine, and disease cannot exist.

I am your Creator, echoes a voice on high,
You are my children, and I will never leave you.
Live with Me in my heavenly home,
Where poverty, famine, and disease cannot exist.

Come! shout the leaders;
Lead on! say the followers.
God is lost to the strength in cruel mercenaries,
And thousands are lost to salvation.

My Alone

I possess a place called Alone.
I am the "soul" owner,
No one can go there with me.
Alone is my store house,
It holds my conceit,
my memories,
my temper,
my guilt,
my dreams,
and, my love.
Alone is my home
When I reject human surroundings.
When I die I'll go there.
No one can go there with me,
For then, I shall return there . . .
Alone.

Liz Baier

Nostalgia

I sit alone on the pebbled beach;
My thoughts are flung to the foam.
The breeze blends to soothe my inward soul;
My mind weaves a journey home.

Salute the sea and soft winds obey;
Accept the challenge to roam.
Sail far with the morn and seek not wealth,
Save that which awaits back home.

Forgiveness

I know
Not how she could
Forgive my wrong-doing
Forgetting all the hurt she must Have borne.

organizations

Hi Sherry
Hope to see you next year
See ya.

Every Wednesday is a red letter day for students — it is the regular meeting night of school clubs and organizations.

Those of us looking ahead to our careers are eager to participate in clubs which stress educational, professional, and vocational development. While enjoying the companionship of those with similar interests, we learn about our chosen fields.

If oratorically inclined, we may express our views in a discussion club, or try to apply our persuasive talents in speech contests. We let off steam, solve world problems, and sometimes learn the lessons of hasty generalizations and false assumptions.

Service to the school takes the form of working in the library, operating the movie projectors and tape recorders, and assisting the administrative offices. The school newspaper and annual publish and record the important events of the school year.

Thespians produce professional triumphs from modest beginnings. The annual talent show places students individually before an audience. Later some are united into a working cast for the Senior Class Play. From the costumes and props to the edge-of-your-seat-scenes, we guarantee memorable moments.

Naturally our primary purpose is study. We realize that most of our lives will be directed by the knowledge we've garnered. However, organizational activities provide an opportunity to cope with another aspect of our future — people. We meet with, compete with, and talk with other students through our school activities.

Reorganize Council to Fit New Demands

The purposes of Student Council are to provide a laboratory of citizenship in which students can gain experience in self-government; to give students a share in the administration of the school; to foster good student-faculty relations, school spirit, and high standards; and to encourage student expression.

The new OHS signifies a great educational leap forward, and it required many changes in past procedures. The Student Council found it necessary to reorganize; it now consists of one representative for each two homerooms, and it is assisted by a Delegate Assembly made up of representatives from the remaining homerooms, class officers, club representatives, and interested students.

The Assembly serves as an advisory group which works under the Student Council. It may have projects of its own, carry them out, and receive due credit, but the projects and activities must meet with Student Council approval.

There are several important advantages to this new system. The Council's working capacity is enlarged because it can turn to the Assembly for recruits. The relationship between the Assembly and the students is closer, for any interested student is eligible to join and to participate in the activities and discussions. Since its meetings are held after school and are not limited by time as are the Council's meetings, the Assembly is an excellent sounding board for varying ideas.

The Student Council sponsored a chili supper, the Wisconsin calendar sale, the OHS sweatshirt sale, Student Code Week, dress-up days, the May, Homecoming, and Christmas dances, the sending of delegates to state and national workshops and conventions, and an American Field Service program. This year the Council added to the list the management of the snack bar in the "O" room, and guiding of visitors through the new building, and the sponsorship of two AFS students, one from Argentina, and one from Germany.

Future plans of the Student Council include establishing a working unity between the Council and the Assembly, and becoming a closer and more effective link between the administration and faculty and the students.

NHS Members, the Pride of Oshkosh High

Geniuses! No, but National Honor Society members proudly sported a high "B" or "A" average in their studies. Honor society members were chosen by the faculty for their qualities of citizenship, scholarship, and leadership. Election to the Society was the highest honor the faculty could bestow on deserving students.

The major opus which the Society annually undertook was the aiding and abetting of students running for class offices. Members checked speeches, coached speakers, and supervised voting.

As a reward for a year of scholastic achievement and school service, the annual National Honor Society Tea was given for members and their parents.

Always looking ahead, the O'Neil Chapter of the National Honor Society encouraged scholastic excellence, promoted student participation in clubs and organizations, and discovered useful ways to serve the school.

American Field Service

In the beginning, I was lost and mixed up by the number of new people and ideas I met.
That North and South were both Americas, I began to doubt, but how could I get the situation fixed up?
Then I learned that in this America to "get in"
means to get out of the huge, new school,
of getting locked in the lockers,
out of football uniforms,
(how much lighter is soccer!)
out of shoveling snow,
(Mar del Plata is warm).
To get Spanish words and ways out of my head and replace them with the American ones instead like:
a mess means a locker,
to study is to be "out of your rocker",
boy amigos are know as "Dukes", book reports are made without books.
To dance is to twist,
to neck is to kiss,
school is to stay,
7 to 7 makes one school day.

Teachers have pets,
Americans travel at speed always jet.
As a rule, girls are "cool",
which means "not bad".
Then to get out of being so sad, and trying to keep myself from crying when Queen Bev's tears were almost drowning her out of her homecoming crowning.
Getting out of Argentina far away into the U.S., and then into crazy costumes for the "Song of Norway".
Now the year is done,
Bravo! which means I had fun
and I'm really on my way out.
I'd really like to stay in,
but I'll just have to shout
to AFS, to OHS!
Muchas gracias for what this year has been,
which means:
Thanks mu(a)cho
from your Argentine gaucho,

Gerry

Dear Oshkosh High Friends,

The last year has been a wonderful experience for me, and this Notebook will always remind me of the fun I had, and of all the people who made my stay such a pleasant one.

I want to say "thank you" to everyone of you who made this year unforgettable for me.

It was a privilege for me to visit your beautiful new school, though many students told me that I missed something by not knowing the old one.

During the time I spent with you, I learned many things that I'll tell the people at my home about. I sincerely hope that I'll be able to come and see you all again sometime.

'Till then, "Thank you" and "Good-bye"

Sigi

As you read this, friends, it is a time for reflection. This yearbook is your key to the past, and its value therefore will lie in future years.

Just like this yearbook, the real value of the opportunity to live and to study abroad will have made itself manifest in the years to come. When my place in life is determined, I shall page back through this yearbook and utter silently one last thanks to you, the students of Oshkosh High School, for making it possible for me to increase in the understanding of my fellow man.

Our generation of Americans is international. There is no longer such a thing as 'our own back yard'; we are all world citizens. Let us realize our wealth, but let us be humble before a less fortunate world.

From the bottom of my heart,
thank you Oshkosh High School.

Drama Club

The Drama Club met once a month and was affiliated with the National Thespian Society. When a member of Drama Club earned ten points, he became a National Thespian, a star at thirty points, and an Honor Thespian at sixty points. Members of Drama Club could earn points by working on or off stage in any of the club's productions.

This year the Drama Club sponsored several pep skits before football and basketball games. In November, the Thespians presented the play, "Dear Brutus," by James M. Barrie. Members of Drama Club who were not in the play worked on the stage crew, and the publicity, make-up, and costume committees. Each person also helped by selling tickets to the play.

During the month of January, groups of students planned skits and novelty acts. The groups were auditioned by the Drama Club advisors, Mrs. Wille and Mrs. Lahti, and the best acts were used for the talent show presented in February.

Officers of the Drama Club were: President, Henry Mathewson; Vice President, David Hirschberg; Secretary, Leni Wright; and Treasurer, Jill Kugler.

Debate Club

This year a group of students organized the Debate and Discussion Society. The ambitious group's purpose was "to instill in the students of Oshkosh High School an increased awareness of their physical and intellectual environment; to stimulate the growth of healthy and effective patterns of thought and research; to develop the individual powers of self-expression and encourage him to take an active role in group discussions of all types; and to broaden the individual's spheres of interest in many diversified fields by extending the realm of his knowledge."

The Society, through the various methods of group presentation, discussed topics of current interest. Topics were selected by a three-man committee which had a rotating membership as it dropped and added one member each meeting.

The group's hope for the future was that it would be able to sponsor an inter-school debate team.

Club officers were President Bruce Bauer; Vice-President Robert Emmerichs; Secretary Carol Woodard; Treasurer Ruth Pride. Advisor to the Society is Mr. Zeinert.

MIAA Provides Competitive Opportunities

Boys will be physically fit as long as Men's Intramural Athletic Association exerts its firm grip on their after-school hours.

The club's advisor, Mr. Harlan Quandt, defines the purpose of the club as being "to provide good, healthy competition."

This year about 200 boys participated in the club's program which included tennis, golf, basketball, bowling, wrestling, tumbling, and a free-throw tournament.

Points were awarded to the boys for being on championship teams and for individual team honors. At the end of the year, the ten senior boys who had accumulated the most points, were given free trips to a Milwaukee Braves' game.

These Energetic Girls Keep "On the Move"

Girls interested in sports join the Girls' Athletic Association. It met every Thursday night in the new gym for basketball, archery, badminton, or volleyball. Other GAA projects were swimming after school at South Park, and holding bowling tournaments on Monday nights.

The girls and their advisor, Miss Siebert, also held social events, such as the White Elephant Party given at Christmas time.

The girls receive awards at the end of the year for promoting physical fitness. For each meeting she attends, a girl earns ten points. As a champion, or as a member of a championship team, she gets 100 points. All who earn five hundred points in a year are awarded with a big letter "O" on awards day. For each additional five hundred points earned, a girl receives a chevron.

Pep Club Boosts School Spirit

The Pep Club, a new club for a new school, went over well this year. It was responsible for the many activities which made our games more comfortable and exciting. Included in its many activities were: the rearrangement of football seating to the other side of the field for more room, half-time entertainment, the decorating of the gym for the first basketball game ever to be played there, the birth of a school mascot, "Kie Ko", a school flag, and a new style of booster buttons. The club also sponsored and underwrote part of the expense of bus-rides to out-of-town-games.

The present staff of Pep Club was elected at the first meeting held June 1, 1961, at the old school. On September 7, 1961, the first meeting at the new school was held in the "O" room. The prospective members were given the chance to hear the plans of the club, to hear the constitution of the club, to meet the counselors, Miss Habstritt and Miss Schatzka, and to sign up for membership.

At the nominal fee of 50¢ for a whole year, approximately 375 students joined.

Being a new club in a new school, the Pep Club gradually pushed FORWARD toward its goal of better student participation and sportsmanship.

Lettermen's Club Promotes Sportsmanship

The Lettermen's Club, a new organization, was formed to promote a high standard of athletics and to create a fellowship among varsity athletes.

With Mr. Don Erickson as advisor, the club members undertook many worthwhile and rewarding projects, such as ushering at football and basketball games, supervising the sale of concessions, providing the visiting team with light refreshments, and keeping the playing floor clean during the half.

To be eligible for membership, a student must maintain a C average and earn a letter in a school sport.

The club's initial step in promoting school spirit was to order blue sweaters with large letter O's on the front. Members were encouraged to wear their sweaters to school on game days.

As the year progressed, students became aware of the importance of this club in making this first year at O.H.S. a success.

1962 LETTERMEN'S CLUB OFFICERS are John Moore, Rick Lentz, Henry Rutz, Steve Lange.

Pythagorean Trains Mathematical Minds

Pythagorean Council promoted greater interest in science and mathematics. The advisor was Mr. Hoffman, who teaches geometry and third-year math.

Among the club's activities are sponsorship of the annual Algebra and Geometry awards, given to the outstanding students in these subjects, and a state-wide mathematics contest held each year by the Mathematics Association of America. The club also planned field Trips, discussions, and other activities to promote interest in mathematics and scholarship.

They Can Translate "Cultura non species"

Regalis Ordo Romuli welcomed all students who learned the Latin language. The main project of the club was the exciting Roman Banquet held in February. "A Roman Wedding" was the theme for this year's banquet. Club officers were in charge of the various phases of this activity, such as decorations, invitations, refreshments, entertainment, and of course, clean-up.

This year the club endeavored to be more active. In previous years it met twice a year, but this year meetings were held every month. Members learned about everything from Badger Girls and Boys to how Roman food was prepared. At the meeting before the banquet, a slave sale was held where members bought personal sophomore slaves to serve them at the banquet. Another club activity was selling concessions at games.

These modern Romans managed to have fun while keeping the latin language alive.

Student Librarians are our "Bookkeepers"

Student Librarians' Service Club had many facets — those of service, knowledge, and enjoyment.

Service was the most important product. Every student who visited the library knows from observation the many tasks that had to be done. Books — important keys to a student's future — were kept usable by an ever vigilant host of librarians who checked them in and out, mended bindings, sent out and stamped in overdue slips, pasted labels, reviewed new additions to the shelves, and wonder of all wonders — even read.

Club meetings were happy occasions, for there was often a guest speaker, rarely parliamentary procedure, and always food! Much was accomplished, as shown by the Librarian's Workshop at Oshkosh State College and the annual Faculty Tea held in the library.

The club took time from the students' lives — an hour daily — but gave worthy compensations. Every librarian gained an increased knowledge of books worth reading, practical skills in using library materials well, and a feeling of being useful in the school.

FNA Specializes in Aid and Aspirin

The Future Nurses of America Club was new this year. Members of all classes are welcome to join if they are interested in nursing as a career.

FNA's top priority programs are those devoted to providing career information. This year club members have received information on school, industrial, and public health nursing.

Club members, who are urged to visit nursing schools, attended Mercy Hospital School of Nursing Open House on November 4.

The girls meet with their advisor, Mrs. Rudolf, twice a month and the club is looking forward to affiliation with the National Future Nurses of America organization. Officers this year were President Sue Kossel; Vice-President Janet Ristow; Secretary Beverly Luedeke; Treasurer Marilyn Kraus.

Special nursing pins were given to outstanding members on Awards Day in June.

FFA Sees "New Frontiers" in Farming

Future Farmers of America is the national organization for boys studying vocational agriculture.

No national student organization enjoys greater freedom of self-government under adult counsel than the Future Farmers of America. Organized in November 1928, it has served to provide further training in farmer-citizenship.

The Future Farmers of America is a non-profit, non-political farm youth organization of voluntary membership, designed to take its place for the development of leadership, the building of better agriculture, and the improvement of country life.

The Future Farmers of today exists because of a cooperative spirit and a desire for bettering agriculture. Improved agriculture, better local communities, and more efficient farmer-citizens are emerging as a result of the boys' experiences.

The local chapter, which had approximately sixty members was a strong participant in this great service.

Today . . . FTA, Tomorrow . . . a Classroom

"To learn about the opportunities in teaching, to cultivate the qualities essential in a good teacher, to study the lives of great teachers, and to foster the development of student leadership" — these were the purposes of Future Teachers of America as stated in the club constitution.

Membership in FTA was open to juniors and seniors who were interested in teaching and who maintained a 2.5 grade-point average.

Meetings included films, guest speakers, open discussions, and participation in a program sponsored by the student National Education Association at Wisconsin State College, Oshkosh, for FTA groups in the surrounding area.

This year FTA worked out an arrangement for interested and able members to assist teachers with paper work.

The advisors were Miss Link and Miss Schneider. Officers were President Joan Fries; Vice-President Darrell Koplitz; Secretary Ruth Pride; Treasurer Georgia Lewis; Historian Karla Raddatz; Librarian Mary Hansen; and Delegate Assembly Representative Judy Boeder.

FBLA Actively Builds for Future

Future Business Leaders of America is a group of young adults striving to serve their club, their school, and their community. The organization works to provide opportunities for students to build desirable skills and personal qualities required of them in the business world.

This year FBLA members toured the offices of Kimberly-Clark Corporation. A "live" display portraying various fields of business was given at Scharpf's, Incorporated. The sale of carnations was a special project during Dress-Up Week, with the proceeds applied toward a scholarship for some student to further his or her education. A second fund-raising project undertaken by the organization was the designing and selling of school stationery.

Miss Mary Juzwiak, secretary to the president of the First National Bank, talked to the club regarding secretarial duties and opportunities.

An activity which provided valuable experience to business students was the opportunity to "run" Johnson Hills store for a day. On this day club members were salespeople, supervisors, copy writers, and even manager of the department store. The year was climaxed with the state convention held at Green Lake, where members participated in speaking, spelling, and displaying special projects.

The club was under the guidance of Miss Vorpahl and Miss Schatzka.

Modernized INDEX Published More Often

To fit the needs of a new high school and an ever increasing student body, the INDEX has become a smaller, but more frequently published paper. Another innovation is the delivery of an INDEX to each subscriber's locker.

By more regular publication, the INDEX presents school news when it happens, at its freshest.

As always, the INDEX seeks to fulfill the fine journalistic standards it has maintained in past years, while keeping the policy of being "of the students, by the students, and for the students of Oshkosh High." Much rewriting and thought results in each issue combining current news, features of interest, humor, student art, and careful layout.

The success of its staff is evidenced by the fact that the INDEX was given first class ratings by the NATIONAL SCHOLASTIC PRESS ASSOCIATION.

They Solicited Advertising Accounts

Advertising revenue is essential to both school publications. The responsibility for contacting local merchants, selling the advertisements, and billing the accounts rests with the separate business staffs.

The INDEX business staff is responsible for organizing the publication's sales subscription drive shortly after school opens. Soliciting local merchants for advertising follows closely and lasts throughout the school year.

For NOTEBOOK business staff the problem is different. Because the annual is a once a year publication, the drive for advertising accounts preceeds subscription sales. And, instead of having several opportunities to call on merchants the NOTEBOOK space salesman has to succeed in making the sale on the first call.

Being closely associated with subscription sales, the two business staffs usually end up working with the circulation departments to distribute the newspaper and annual to buyers.

sports

The 1961-62 school year brought many "firsts" to Oshkosh High School in the field of athletics.

Students awaited with anticipation the completion of the final part of the school — the gymnasium. When that day finally arrived in mid-November, the sight of shiny floors, huge balconies, and a broadcasting booth mounted high above the basketball floor met the student's eyes as they entered the gym's glass-windowed doors for the first time.

The gym made possible greater participation in intramural athletic activities. For the first time in years, the senior girls were able to have regular gym classes. GAA and MIAA found the four gym-court areas a good place for everything from badminton to wrestling.

The Varsity locker room was finished several weeks after school started. Although football games were still played at the old athletic field, the Indians kept their new spirit with them as they fought for victory.

A season athletic ticket provided students opportunity to attend all home games at greatly reduced prices.

Two new sports organizations entered the scene — the Lettermen's Club and the Pep Club. Both helped to promote and cultivate school spirit with their enthusiasm and support.

The combination of new facilities and renewed vigor brought the school's teams FORWARD to fresh accomplishments.

Predictions Realized; Team Shares Title

There was little doubt in the minds of the Oshkosh fans and the athletic experts that this was destined to be a memorable football year for the Indians. The predictions that Oshkosh would be one of the top teams in the conference were based on the return of a speedy, experienced backfield, and by the return of rugged line veterans noted for their punishing power.

As in past years, the "Indians" were overpowered by the tough Madison East squad in the non-conference opener and lost by a score of 7—3.

The team first displayed its predicted conference strength by routing the Appleton "Terrors" 35—6.

The second conference game, played on Sheboygan South's field, showed the superior ability of Coach Schumerth's offensive and defensive units. The hope that the team was developing to its potential was reinforced by a 21—0 victory.

"Send North to Alaska!" The phrase could be heard throughout the school as the team prepared to battle Sheboygan North's "Raiders" in the 1961 Homecoming game. With a capacity crowd on hand, the "Indians" outlasted the "Raiders" and won 27—21.

The next game found the gridders routing Green Bay East 48—14 in a game at Green Bay. For Oshkosh fans, the highlight of the game was the powerful running attack the team evidenced.

On October 20, Oshkosh suffered its only conference defeat, in losing to Manitowoc 39—14. Hopes of an undefeated conference record were destroyed and hopes of winning the title were weakened.

Billed as the game that would decide the Fox River Valley championship, the battle with Green Bay West was eagerly anticipated. The "Wildcats" were the top team in the conference with an unblemished 5—0 record, and rated by experts as the number one team in the state. The second place "Indians" desperately needed a victory over West to share the conference title. Led by a bunch of opportunists called the defensive team, the "Indians" capitalized on every "Wildcat" error to score a stunning 20—14 win.

Oshkosh closed the season by trouncing the Fond du Lac "Cardinals" 22—13, to insure itself a tie for the Fox River Valley Crown.

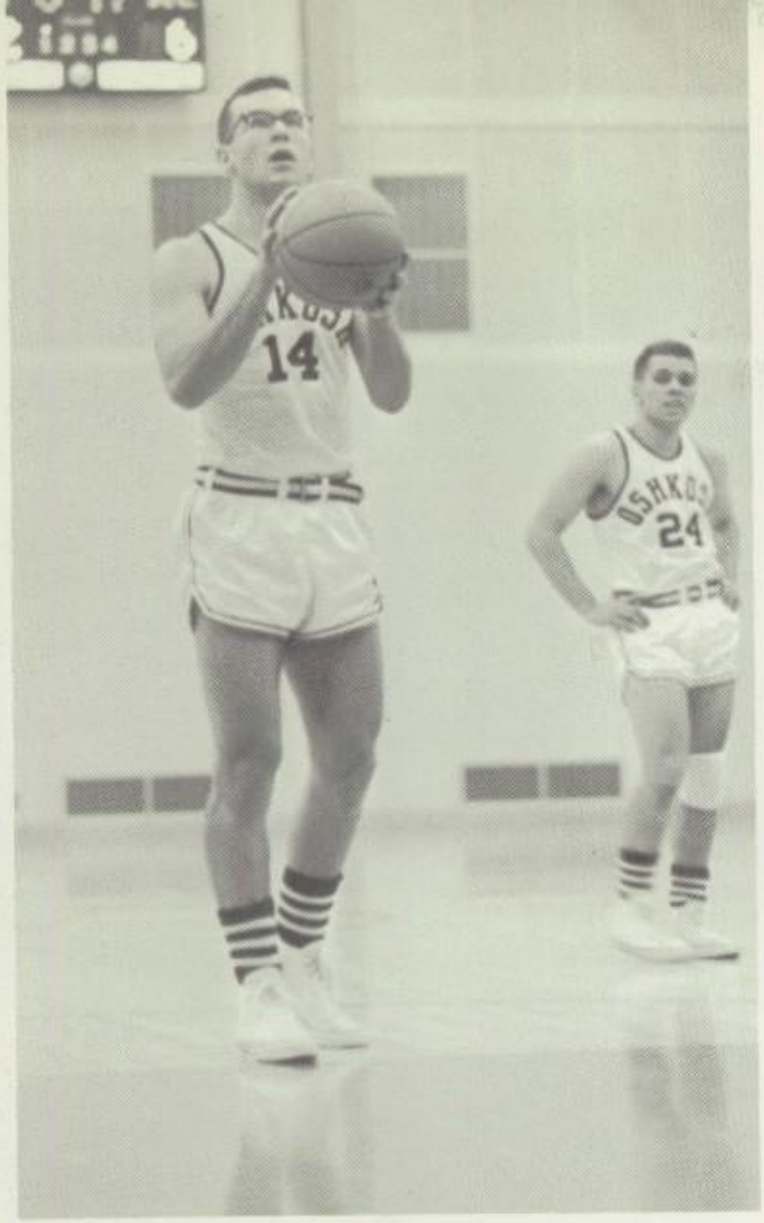
A Night with the "Indians" Basketball Team

"WOSH" SPORTSCASTER HERB WILLIS receives the starting line-up for both squads and checks it over prior to starting the broadcast. Meanwhile, tension and relaxation are revealed on the faces of Tom Stroede, Frank Otto, Roger Beck, Chuck Paul, Bill Steinhilber, and Dave Reamer as they sit relaxing in the "Indians" dressing room waiting for Coach Erickson to give the pre-game chalk talk.



DAVE PUTZER EYES the basket for a free throw while Steve Lange plays deep to guard against a fast break.

HONESTLY — it's wonderful to be a SENIOR! Teachers now treat us not only as students but as responsible adults — and friends! We're conscious of obligations which provide opportunity; helping to shape school policies, operating school activities, attending school social functions. We appreciate the close friendships we've made, the special romances we've experienced, the crises we've survived, the triumphs we've had, the "togetherness" of club activities we've felt, the deep beauty which is in the knowledge we've garnered. In future years we may laugh at, or see differently the things which are vital now. Nevertheless, we will derive pleasure and courage from recollection of these precious moments!

UPPERCLASSMEN aren't the only students who profited from this year. We JUNIORS found "open sesames" to the clubs, and many chances to win that contest, sing that solo, make that touchdown. We enjoyed giving the "sophs" the benefit of our sage advice, and learned much from the seniors — who aren't so bad after all! Up to our eyes in study and fun, we experienced a metamorphosis in personality. There was an increased dedication to the alma mater, an earnest attempt to self improvement, a shouldering of responsibilities, a sober look into the future. We made progress this year, and just wait till next!

SOPHOMORES sometimes tend to become lost in the shuffle of students — but not ours! They went all out for extra-curricular activities, and didn't slack in studies either. In spite of the volume of criticism and advice offered by juniors and seniors, they were exemplary citizens of OHS!

Whether we were sophisticated SENIORS, cosmopolitan JUNIORS, or eager SOPHOMORES, we're proud to have been a part of a school which gives us the keys of learning to open the doors of the FUTURE.

follow-up

All student wanderers, aided by maps and instinct, became accustomed to the place and amalgamated the old traditions with the new — making history,
under the subheading of progress,
for it was a new era
and we were moving FORWARD.
We marvelled at the absence of warps and the recordings of our voices in language lab.
We studied in the library and club-attended on Wednesdays.
Contests came,
operettas, plays,
and minimum essentials —
but we survived!
We showed spirit by cheering our team FORWARD!
and taking pride in our academic studies.
Sophomores and juniors looked FORWARD to another year . . .
Though seniors among us would be here only a while,
they left their leadership as an example of school sportsmanship for underclassmen to follow and emulate.
As winter faded, Spring came bringing dances,
term papers,
and the demand for such commodities as formals,
erasers,
and more time.
Graduation impended,
college applications flooded
the mails,
and eyes brimmed with tears;
we'd grown accustomed to the place!

Another year became a filled calendar of memories;

A step FORWARD had been taken — a step into the life that was ahead.

Whether work, college, or uncertain responsibilities loomed,

We could face the future, having learned by example and application to be active members of our school.

We eagerly anticipated the challenge of citizenship within the community — and America.

A new OHS began the momentum of improvement.

Now, it was up to us, as we faced commencement and life, to carry on traditional ideals and to continue — FORWARD!

(LEFT) PHOTOGRAPHER, DIRECTOR AND SCRIPT WRITER Mr. Spees shoots film footage to be spliced into a movie which will be shown to cadet teachers. (RIGHT) A SMILING NANCY RADDATZ accepts congratulations from Tom Burtch, one of the participants in the Voice of Democracy Contest. Nancy just learned that she was the State winner in the contest and entitled to a free trip to Washington, D.C. to participate in the national contest.

(LEFT) ONE CAN ALMOST HEAR the words of these two housewives as they viewed the conveyer belt system for dirty dishes. "Just imagine how our hands would look." (ABOVE) AT THE CHRISTMAS TEA, a hungry Mr. Mason discovered that his dramatic gestures made no inroads on Miss Davenport's sympathy. Mr. Koch and Mr. Schultz ignored the situation while Mr. Patterson watched and wondered.

(ABOVE) MR. LEIST'S UP-RAISED arm indicates to A Cappella girls to hold that high note. The group gathered in the "O" Room to sing Christmas music which was piped over the public address system to all classrooms. (RIGHT) A SCENE THAT was repeated many times over during the basketballseason — Roger Beck getting the opening tip-off.

MUCH to do in '62

Page 148 (no. one) BACK FOR AN ENCORE, Dale Klitzke sings, "Swanee, how I love ya" at the February Talent Show. (no. two) THE STAGE BAND featuring Lee Hanson and Gary Miller played "Mr. Anthony's Boogie" as it introduced the second half of Concert Band's Opus 7. (no. three) WHAT'S THIS 'A' CARD doing in the 'U' file?" asks Sue Pasono of Cheryl Hoffman as they ready the cards for typing the notebook index pages.

DESCARTES A DIT UN JOUR:

"Il est bon de savoir quelque chose des moeurs de divers peuples, afinde juger des nôtres plus sainement, et que nous ne pensions pas que tout ce qui est contre nos modes soit ridicule et contre raison, ainsi qu'ont coutume de faire ceux qui n'ont rien vu." (For translation, see page 168.)

A Tribute

On February 21, 1962, the flag in front of our school flew at halfmast. Oshkosh High School and its students had lost one of their most beloved teachers, Mr. Rexford Hess. For twenty years, the history taught in his classroom became alive through his philosophy and his understanding of the students who worked with him.

Mr. Hess was a student and athlete at Oshkosh High School. His ability and sportsmanship earned a position for him on the basketball team during his junior and senior years. He was always interested in his alma mater, even while teaching or serving as a principal in other schools. We are indeed fortunate that he finally accepted a position in our high school.

For any member of the last eighteen graduating classes, Mr. Hess will always be remembered as the guiding adviser, the man who made the graduation ceremonies successful, the senior banquets enjoyable, and the senior proms memorable. More than six thousand students who have left our school during the last thirteen years and all the faculty who knew him find only deep respect and admiration for the teacher they have lost.

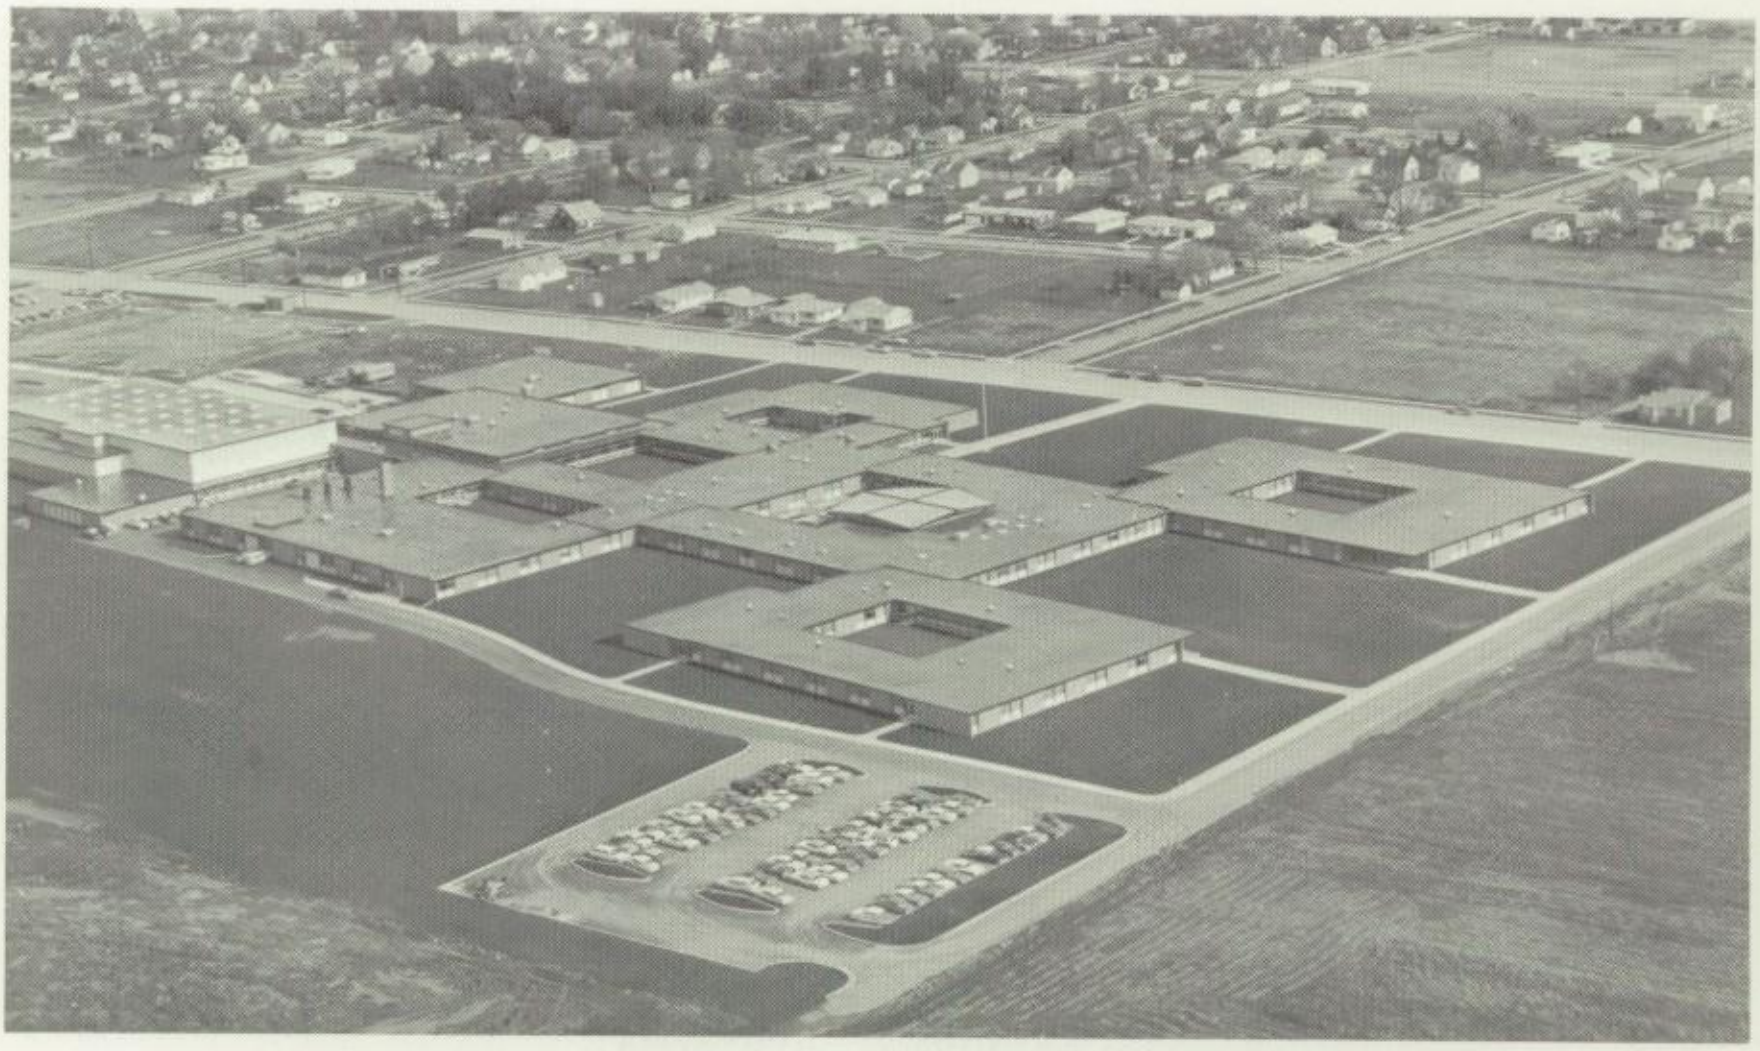
Who Made



Congratulations and best wishes from PERKINS & WILL, to the citizens of Oshkosh upon completion of the new high school. As the architects who designed the new building, the firm wishes to express its appreciation for cooperation received during construction.

Before leaving, Mr. Manske informed Mr. Leu that he could depend on the testing equipment supplied by OSHKOSH AUTO PARTS.

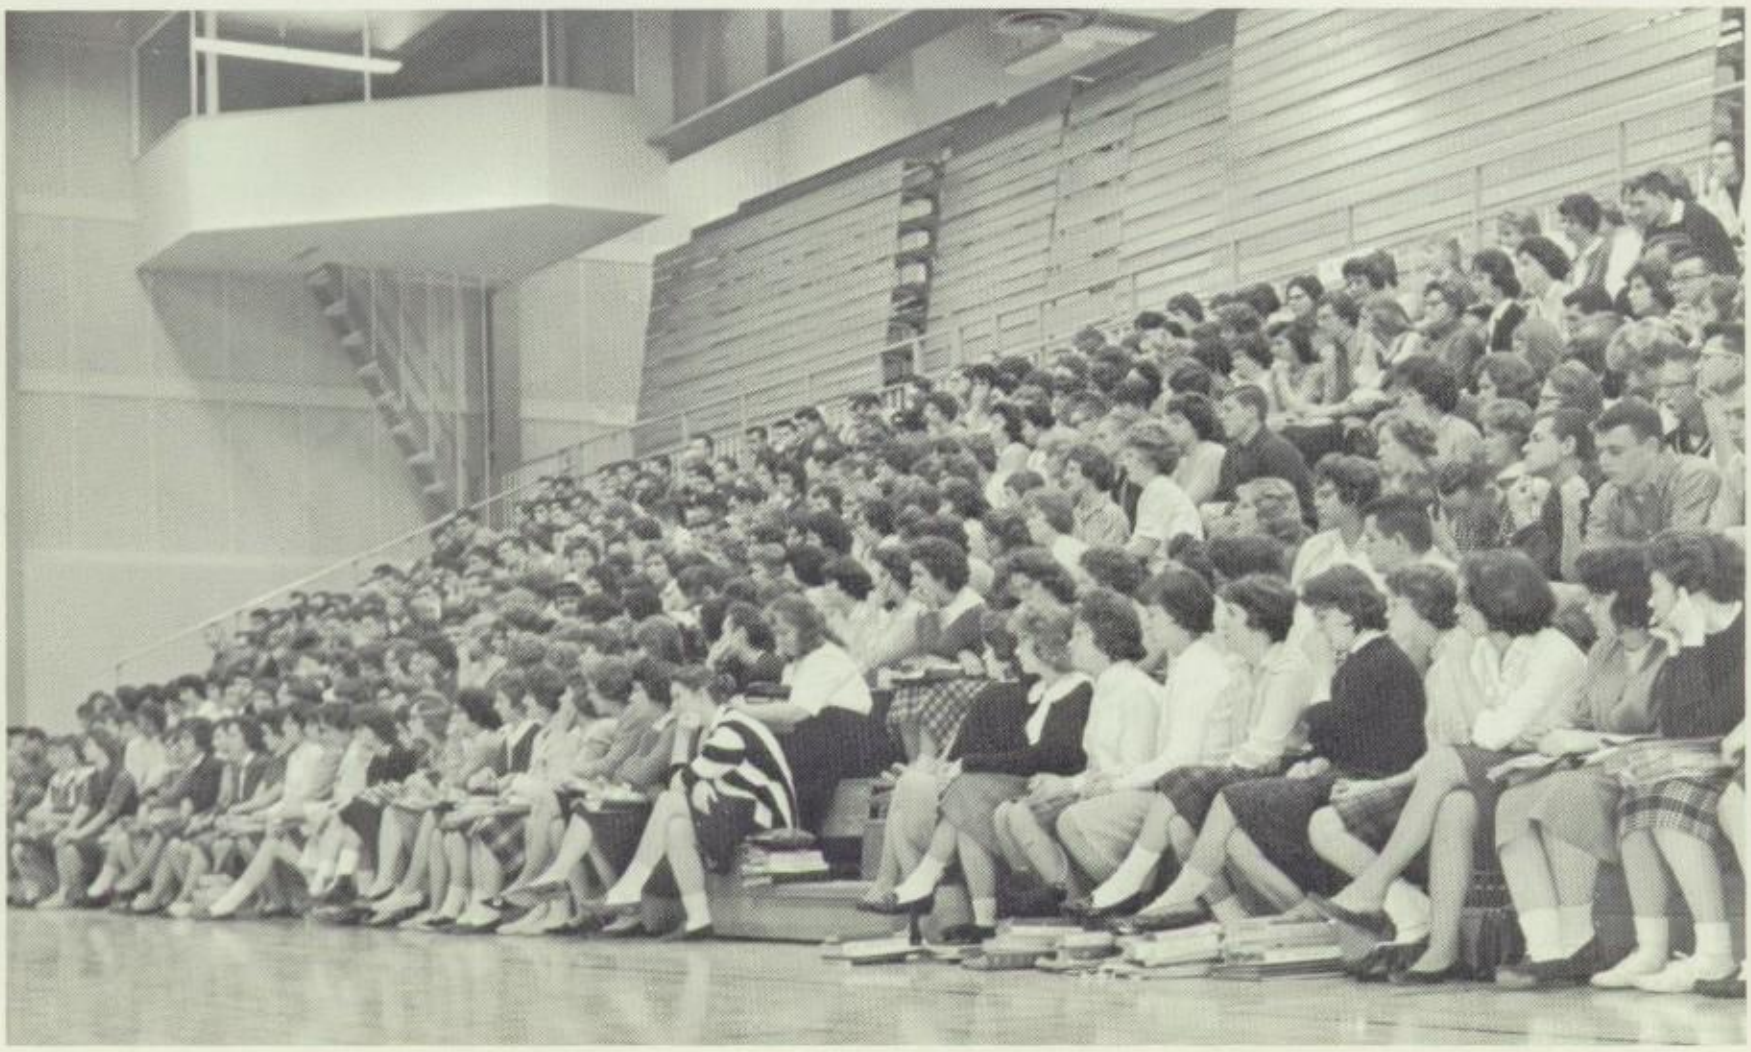
Thanks to the musical equipment from WILSON'S, the Pep Band perked up our spirits with sparkling melody.

It Possible —

Comfortable chairs furnished by VALLEY SCHOOL SUPPLIES provide Keith Matsche with a pleasing atmosphere for reading in the library.

Mr. Glenn Miller, along with many others, discovered that THE SCHOOL HEALTH SUPPLY CO. did a magnificent job of equipping the Student Health Center.

General contractors since 1893, THE HOFFMAN COMPANY, INCORPORATED, is pleased to have served as general contractors for the new high school and wishes to extend its best wishes to the first senior class to graduate from the building.



Your 1962

Elated by the spacious bulletin boards furnished by SCHOOL EQUIPMENT CONSULTANTS, INC., Miss Porterfield adds another item to her wealth of material on the Colonial Period.

As host school for the 1962 Sectional Tournament, Oshkosh provided 5,319 spectators living-room comfort with the heating and ventilation installed by AUGUST WINTER & SONS.

ADVISER ..... Mr. Jon Malaney
BUSINESS MANAGER .. Mr. Edwin Grosskopf

Congratulations, NOTEBOOK staff members! We set a agonizing record for 1962 in the new school — but it ultimately became an honorable one. By applying a little simple arithmetic, I determined that as a group the staff worked a minimum of 1,657 hours producing this year's book. On the night of February 19,1962, at 5:00 pm I stopped keeping track; just page proofs and the advertising section were left. We spent more time in the building than anyone else. Students not on the staff might say, "What drudgery!", but I can't recall a single hour that was totally work. We always found something to laugh at (either Dave or Carol) so the drudgery simply was not.

We saw and heard phenomena unknown to most students, the sounds of floor waxing machines, the moans and groans of painters, the laughter of teachers cheerfully returning to a snow-closed school, and the hollow crescents of echoes bouncing off empty walls at 8:00 pm. How could we ever forget the sight of Joan Fries ravenously devouring Mr. Malaney's chicken sandwiches and Mr. Traeger peeking in the door after 5:00, saying, "I smell coffee."

I'll confess that September was a month of panic. We had one table and a sink when production started. Cardboard boxes substituted for files, cabinets, and tables. But by stealing, snatching, or requisitioning — we acquired quantities of furniture to establish and equip our office. We obtained such luxuries as two sponges (one big one cut in half) for the sink, a paper cutter that was partial to Heide, two temperamental typewriters, and an impressive assortment of desks and cabinets. Even our aluminum Venetian blinds worked! The office became a home away from home for many of us who came to school at 7:00 am and left at 5:00 pm. Who needs daylight anyway?!! In W-10 we could eat, gossip, laugh, but most important, work — all at the same time!

Although many citizens of Oshkosh thought our new school was "so far from civilization," the NOTEBOOK staff enjoyed being almost next door to a drive-in where we cashed in our report cards for malts and hamburgers to eat at parties. "Parties" is the staff euphemism for working until after 8:00 pm in order to meet the printer's deadline.

With spring in sight I can look back and say that there'll never be a staff to match ours. (Boy, is Mr. Malaney lucky!) Our book is unique — and good! Thank you all who made it that way.

Those 1,657 hours are almost doubled when we think of the time Mr. John Thompson of ZERNICKE'S spent helping us. He not only photographed all seniors, took all group pictures, but also enlarged our school candids. He deserves our special thanks and has them. I would also like to thank the OSHKOSH DAILY NORTHWESTERN for letting us borrow its pictures.

To our own special custodian, Chuck, and to all his fellow workers we give our thanks and gratitude for keeping us comfortable through the long days. The inaccuracies that may appear in the book are staff errors; certainly Mrs. Travis and Mrs. Osborn provided us with all the accurate information necessary to do a perfect job. Miss Pauline Kleveno knows the extent of our indebtedness to her. So for her private silence and help, thanks.

Now, as I send in the last re-re-checked proofs, and watch the new staff begin plans for the 1963 NOTEBOOK, I hope they will derive as much pleasure and pride in next year's NOTEBOOK as my staff and I did. And the meaning of that sign Mr. Malaney tacked up the second day he met the staff is clear now. It applies to all kinds of achievement, "When you stop being better, you stop being good."

Mary

"It is worth knowing something of various peoples' manner, that we may judge ours more soundly and that we may not regard all that is against our modes of life as ridiculous and against reason as they who have seen nothing will." Descartes, 1596—1650.

Have a good vacation, Don — and good luck in the future!

P. E. Blair

Don,
I can't imagine what Geography class would've been like (in our little corner) without you. Be good over the summer and I hope you survived your part I discussion.
Cathie Stry

Don
I sure wish I had the brains you did when it came to Geography. Keep up the good work and you will go places.
Lots of Great Luck.
Judy Zabel

Don,
It sure was a blast
in Geo. class. The years sure did go fast. Hope to see you next year.
Best of luck next year.
Audrey Welle

Hope you have the best of luck always! God Bless you!
Lynette
Reckin

Don,

We sure had a blast
in biology class didn't we.
We've joked about almost everything
I'm glad I had you in my class and hope you're in one of mine next year. Have a good summer vacation

Ron Busha

Don, I hope you have fun next year, for you will be a big junior in more than one way.
It was nice knowing you
this year and I wish you
the best luck in the world
